Company Profile

The rapid development of modern biotechnology has significantly improved human life today and will continue to shape the future of humanity. Gencloud Pharmaceutical Technology is deeply involved in the wave of biotechnology development, focusing on the research, production, and sales of APIs and excipients for biopharmaceuticals and related products.

Gencloud Pharmaceutical Technology, founded in Shanghai in 2013, started its pharmaceutical excipients business in the Chinese market. With a core focus on systematic solutions and professional technical services, the company's products and technology applications cover a range of areas, including biological injectables such as insulin, peptides, and chemical high-end pharmaceutical injections, eye drops, oral liquid formulations, and more. Starting from Germany, the company has gradually expanded its partner network to include countries and regions like Japan, Singapore, Indonesia, etc.

Since 2019, GenCloud Pharmaceutical Technology has expanded internationally, working closely with leading suppliers from Europe and Japan, and steadily advancing into global markets in line with China's Belt and Road Initiative. GenCloud Pharmaceutical Technology continues to broaden its portfolio of products originating from Europe and Japan, further strengthening its presence and long-term development in the vast Chinese market.

- Customer-Oriented
 - Wholeheartedly offering appropriate solutions for every customer need.
 - Meeting each customer's specific requirements, whether in terms of technical interaction or rapid product delivery.
 - Providing comprehensive services to each customer, including precise interpretation of national policies and close cooperation in regulatory evaluations.
